Secretary Sees No Present Chance For Korean Unity

WASHINGTON (U.P) - Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission in Korea may be serving an evil purpose.

He said that removal of the commission or restriction of its activities would be desirable. Dulles also told a news conference that he has seen no evidence from the Communists that progress can be made now toward unification of Korea. In the recent Communist calls for a conference on Korea he said the Communists have not indicated they are ready to accept United Nations-supervised election to unify the nation. He said no progress toward unification can be made without that.
